I'm currently a junior at California University majoring in City Planning and Urban Design, and minoring in Studio Art. I take great interest in the functional and aesthetic design of communities and the integrative impact this has on human creativity, collaboration and overall wellness. By integrating an artistic perspective, I'm able to imagine next generation models designed to not only meet the polycrisis we're in, but also seize the moment to make dramatic improvements to the way we live together as a human family.
